

Uterine Fibroids

Frequent urination or heavy periods?

here's what you need to know...

Uterine fibroids are non-cancerous growths in or around the uterus. They can be tiny or large, and often go unnoticed unless they cause symptoms. They may cause heavy periods, pelvic pain, or frequent urination.

What can you do?

Treatment depends on symptoms and goals: options include painkillers, hormonal therapy, minimally invasive procedures, fibroid removal, uterus removal, or simply monitoring.
